Attorneys were asked to offer one piece of advice to a homeowner who is about to join an association board. There were many references to reading and understanding the association’s governing documents, ensuring the association has adequate directors and officers insurance and seeking the advice of legal and association management experts. Said one attorney: "Accept that you have no authority as a single board member, but that only the board as a whole has the authority to act on behalf of and to bind the association."